1. What are the purposes of the intended processing and the legal basis for the processing?

The purpose of the intended data processing is to monitor and analyze user health data through the Acoustery application to provide you notification whether you have a respiratory infection or not.

In addition, we use your personal data for information security purposes and to detect or prevent various types of misuse of services and frauds, based on our legitimate interests, in order to provide you secure and reliable services.

The collected data will not be passed to third parties or used for purposes other than those listed above.

2. What data do we collect about you?

As part of the Acoustery application, we collect and process the following data:

- Personal profile information (account identifier, name and surname or medical record number).
- Biometric data: a tone of the voice when you cough, and a tone of the breathing needed to provide information on the analysis of a sample of the tone of the voice in order to give an opinion on whether you have a respiratory infection or not.
- Health information: whether you are a smoker or not, whether you suffer from a chronic or current illness.
- To provide you this service, the Acoustery application must access the Internet and request permission to access the microphone.

3 How do we use your data?

After entering the following data: gender, age, smoker or not, and whether you suffer from a chronic or current illness, the Acoustery application shall record your voice as you cough, after which will record the sound of your voice while you breathe through your mouth, and processes all that data through configured algorithms after which the system analyzes the data and gives an opinion.

4 How long do we store your data?

- Personal data processed for customer relationship management purposes such as requests from the data subject, complaints, and customer interaction records up to twelve (12) months from the last interaction.
- Personal data is used for analytics and development purposes up to twelve (12) months from the date of collection, unless you withdraw your consent for processing before that period.
- Backups and records of applications, which are processed to ensure the security of your data and services, for up to six (6) months from the date of their creation.
- Data that you have given your consent to the processing of data about your use of the application in order to improve our services and user experience and that you have withdrawn it, up to five (5) years from the withdrawal of consent.

When the retention period expires, we will delete your personal data within a certain period or turn it into anonymous data, unless otherwise provided by laws and regulations.

4 How do we send your data?

We may also send your data:

- Our suppliers, who provide us with IT and business support, as well as customer care services, who will process your account information. All such third parties work under contract and act on our behalf and are in the EU / EEA.
- Where necessary, in response to a legal proceeding or request from a competent authority in accordance with applicable law or in connection with a legal proceeding or process.
